SHOYEIDO

Since our establishment in the early 18th century, Shoyeido has worked diligently to perfect the art of manufacturing Japanese incense, also known as "Koh".

We offer a wide variety of unique and hand-blended scents for every occasion.

Our slogan, "Life with Fragrance" is meant to convey how incense can be a companion to the many activities in our day-to-day live. Our products are made mainly from natural ingredients. We believe it is not only our responsibility to appreciate and protect these generous gifts of nature, but also to preserve the traditions of incense blending that have been passed down from generation to generation.

GIFT OF NATURE

Natural ingredients such as agarwood, sandalwood, cinnamon, clove, star anise — to name a few — are not indigenous to Japan. We work closely with many countries to gather these items and to protect the ecological integrity of all natural components in our incense recipes.

We believe it is not only our responsibility to appreciate and protect these generous gifts of nature, but also to preserve the traditions of incense blending that have been passed down from generation to generation.

Shoyeido products are produced with the greatest care so our customers can enjoy the highest quality of incense.

TEN VIRTUES OF KOH

- It brings communication with the transcendent.
- It refreshes mind and body.
- It removes impurity.
- It brings alertness.
- It is a companion in solitude.
- In the midst of busy affairs, it brings a moment of peace.
- When it is plentiful, one never tires of it.
- When there is little, still one is satisfied.
- Age does not change its efficacy.
- Used everyday, it does no harm.

sui chic-refine-essence

“粋 -sui” is a word that is used to express a Japanese aesthetic sense.

You may find “sui” in one’s sophisticated attitude, elegant appearance, or refined beauty.

It can also refer to the “essence” of things.

We invite you to embrace Shoyeido’s “sui” through chic fragrances, appearance, and the modest smoke of incense.

FLORAL WORLD

FLORAL WORLD INCENSE ASSORTMENT

In the 1890s, SHOYEIDO developed Floral World cone-shaped incense in an effort to introduce Japanese incense to the world, thus becoming the first company in Japan to successfully export incense to the United States. Since that time, Floral World incense has continued to evolve and change, while being cherished by many people along the way. Once again, change is in store for this popular line of incense. We welcome you to enjoy these six rich fragrances, which evoke the lovely scent of a bouquet of flowers.

源氏物語

The legendary Japanese story The Tale of Genji is one of the world's profound cultural achievements. Written by the Lady Murasaki in the early 11th Century as entertainment for the Empress Akiko, this thousand - year - old masterpiece lays claim to many literary firsts :
the world's first true novel.

The first psychological novel. The first historical novel.
The Tale of Genji is a window into a bygone world,
providing a glimpse into the Japan of a millennium ago.

With The Genji Series, Shoyeido is pleased to evoke the scenes and sublime beauty of The Tale of Genji.

How to use Incense Censer

Remove the lid and place Miyako Ash in to the incense censer. Light the tip of the incense and fan out of the fire flame. Insert the stick incense in to the ash or place coil/cone incense on the ash.

* We recommend removing the lid while burning incense. In many cases the lid will restrict the flow of oxygen and can extinguish the incense.

TAGASODE SACHET

Sachets are Non-burning incense items which release a fragrance in its natural, unheated state.

Historically, Japanese fragrant sachets have consisted of a plain or brocade cloth bag with "Nioi-koh" - a powdered mix of natural ingredients such as clove, camphor and sandalwood - inside.

Shoyeido's fragrant sachets continue this long-held style.

INCENSE FOR MIND AND ATMOSPHERE

It is widely believed that incense was brought to Japan over 1400 years ago, along with the conveyance of Buddhism.

Historically, Japanese Incense has often been cherished and used for religious occasions, in the social routine of samurai warriors, and more.

During the Edo period, incense became popular among all classes, as it was established as a tradition for all Japanese culture.

Centuries later, the Japanese style of living has changed but the appreciation and pride for incense in Japanese culture remains the same. We are pleased to convey the concept of “life with fragrance” to our customers.
